Legitimate work at home internet business is like an honest person. If you negotiate with a person about buying a product or a service and this person is in a hurry, he has several other buyers waiting and he is not prepared to present the product, the warning signals should ring. It is the same with the affiliate programs.

1. Tip: Look At The Contact Information. If the program has proper contact information, consisting telephone number, email, street address and telefax, that is the first sign of the legitimate work at home internet business. Now you can make a simple test. Send some questions about the program, for instance, whether it has a training, and if yes, where you can see the training or sample of the training. If the answer comes weeks later and does not include the information you have asked, do not start any kind of a co-operation with the program.

2. Tip: Does The Program Has A Discussion Forum? Many proven and legitimate work at home internet businesses have a discussion forum. That is a good sign, because there you can ask questions from other members. There is also another option, go to some well known internet home business forum and ask the same questions This response is very useful.

3. Tip: Ask From Some Respected Authority. They may or may not know, but all in all, those programs, which are real moneymakers are usually known by these individuals. The experienced guy will also see quite quickly, with one sight, does the suggested program look like a legitimate work at home internet business or not.

4. Tip: If It Is A Paid Service And You Cannot See The Services Included, Be Careful. Most of the legitimate work at home internet businesses offer a possibility to join for free and then you have a chance to up-grade your account to be able to increase your earnings. But if the program requires payment before you have the possibility to check the training material, marketing material, online support or forum, it does not convince.

5. Tip. Do Your Homework. Many newbies are so enthusiastic and eager to join new hype-style offers, that they postpone the research of the offer. In these cases they can just blame themselves. It seems that many scams target their offers to newbies only. This is a real badwill for the whole industry of the legitimate work at home internet business, because people, who have become victims of scams, will distribute their bad experiences throughout the discussion forums. This research guarantees, that the start of your new internet home business will start without any legal problems.
